

Storm Eunice - Can the Epsom Common Ducks handle it?

18 February 2022

Storm Eunice is battering the nation, delaying flights, cancelling trains and causing general tutting and annoyance from all prospective travellers, but there are unsung victims of these gale-force winds, the poor ducks who reside in the ponds of Epsom Common, will they be able to cope with the 90mph winds? If gazebos and golden apple trees alike can't handle the winds, will our little winged friends manage?
